MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

A. Plaintiffs Did Not Follow the Chapter 40 Pre-Litigation Requirements before Filing this Chapter 40 Complaint

Plaintiffs HAFEN RANCH ESTATES; NYE COUNTY CONSTRUCTION, LLC; and PAHRUMP UTILITY COMPANY, INC. (collectively “Plaintiffs”) seek the special protections afforded to homeowners and homeowners’ associations in Chapter 40, but do not even bother to comply with Chapter 40 requirements set forth in NRS 40.645. These requirements set a minimum threshold to file a Chapter 40 Complaint which is part of the overall legislative scheme to prevent and manage construction defect litigation if possible. Plaintiffs should have served a notice on A.Y. McDonald with a list of defects. Plaintiffs did not comply with this requirement. See Affidavit of Sarah Hasken (Doc. #49), ¶ 3 Plaintiffs should have given A.Y. McDonald its right to inspect the alleged defects. Plaintiff did not comply with this requirement. Id., ¶ 4. Plaintiffs should have given A.Y. McDonald the reasonable opportunity to repair the alleged defects. Plaintiffs did not comply with this requirement. Id., ¶ 5. Plaintiffs argue that all these defects in their conduct should be overlooked because they will now give A.Y. McDonald the opportunity to inspect and repair. See Response to A.Y. McDonald’s Motion to Dismiss; in the Alternative, Motion for Alternative Statement (Doc. #62), p. 5, l. 20 – p.6, l. 10. The horse has already left the barn. A.Y. McDonald has already incurred attorney’s fees and costs because it has been improperly brought into this litigation as a defendant without proper Chapter 40 pre-litigation procedures being followed. The Legislative intent of Chapter 40 to avoid construction defect litigation where possible will be thwarted if Plaintiffs are allowed to ignore these pre-litigation procedures as if they are mere surplus language in the statute. Accordingly, Plaintiffs’ Complaint should be dismissed for failure to comply with the pre-litigation requirements of Chapter 40.

B. Plaintiffs are not “Owners of Appurtenances” and Have No Standing to Bring Chapter 40 Claims

Plaintiffs argue that they are “owners of appurtenances” i.e. water lines, but provide no facts to establish that this is true. Id., p. 4, l. 15 – p. 5, l. 19. We do not know, from reviewing

1 the Complaint, where these water lines are located other than somewhere in Nye County, Nevada.
 2 See generally, Complaint. No other details are provided. Id. Furthermore, co-defendant
 3 FERGUSON ENTERPRISES, INC. ("Ferguson") has presented an Affidavit and property records
 4 that show that Plaintiffs own no developed property in Nye County and therefore do not actually 5 own the subject water lines. Affidavit of Phillip Gerson (Doc. #35-1). In an Order dated May 21, 6 2010, this Court ruled Mr. Gerson's Affidavit and the attached evidence admissible (Doc #65).
 7 A.Y. McDonald incorporates Mr. Gerson's Affidavit and attached evidence as if fully set forth 8 herein. Plaintiffs are not homeowners or homeowners' associations. If they are not "owners of 9 appurtenances" they lack standing as "claimants". NRS 40.610. Accordingly, Plaintiffs' 10 Complaint should be dismissed because they lack standing to file a Chapter 40 claim.

11 C. Public Utility Water Lines are not "Appurtenances" as Defined by Chapter 40

12 Without waiving the above argument, the public utility water lines Plaintiffs allege to 13 "own" do not qualify as "appurtenances" as defined by NRS 40.645:

14 1. "Appurtenance" means a structure, installation, facility, amenity or 15 other improvement that is appurtenant to or benefits one or more residences, but is 16 not a part of the dwelling unit. The term includes, without limitation, the parcel of 17 real property, recreational facilities, golf courses, walls, sidewalks, driveways, 18 landscaping, common elements and limited common elements . . . and other 19 structures, installations, facilities and amenities associated with or benefiting one 20 or more residences.

21 The water lines that are the subject matter of this litigation are part of the public water 22 utility system. These water lines benefit the general public in Nye County, not just one
 23 residence or group of residences. Furthermore, the water lines cannot be classified as "common 24 elements"¹ or "limited common elements"² as defined in Chapter 116 because they are not owned

¹ Pursuant to NRS 116.017 "Common elements" means:

- 26 1. In a condominium or cooperative, all portions of the common-interest community other than the 27 units, including easements in favor of units or the common elements over other units; and 28 2. In a planned community, any real estate within the planned community owned or leased by the 29 association, other than a unit.

30 ² Pursuant to NRS 116.059:

1 by the homeowners' association and/or are not easements in favor of an individual home or 2 homes.

3 All of the appurtenances listed as examples in NRS 40.645 are property features to which 4 the owners of private residences have personal ownership or some ownership interest through 5 membership in a homeowners association. Not only do these features benefit a residence or group
 6 of residences, they are owned by the homeowner or homeowners' association. If appurtenances 7 are individually owned, the homeowner maintains them and pays taxes for their assessed value. If 8 the appurtenances are owned by a homeowners association, the homeowners pay an association 9 fee for their upkeep and taxes.

10 Public water lines are utilities, owned by utility companies and not appurtenance to any 11 private residence or group of residents. Water utility companies have easements to repair and 12 maintain their water lines. Owners of private residences have no ownership interest in public 13 utility water lines and no duty to maintain them, nor do they have a right to interfere with the 14 utility company's operation and maintenance of public utility water lines. Homeowners and 15 homeowners' associations do not pay taxes on public utility water lines.

16 Accordingly, the subject public utility water lines are not "appurtenances" and therefore 17 not a proper subject matter in this Chapter 40 litigation. Plaintiffs' Complaint should be 18 dismissed.

19 C. Sarah Hasken is Competent to Affirm the Facts Set Forth in her Affidavit

20 Clouding the issue, Plaintiffs argue Ms. Hasken is not competent to testify and her 21 Affidavit should be disregarded because it contains legal conclusions and expert opinions.
 22 Response (Doc. #62), p. 7, l. 6-12. As Vice-President and Corporate Secretary, Ms. Hasken has 23 personal knowledge that Plaintiffs did not serve a Chapter 40 notice on A.Y. McDonald prior to 24 filing their Complaint in this action. Affidavit of Ms. Hasken (Doc #49), ¶¶ 2-3. Ms. Hasken has 25 personal knowledge that Plaintiffs did not allow A.Y. McDonald to inspect the alleged defects.
 26 Id., ¶ 4. Ms. Hasken has personal knowledge that Plaintiffs did not give A.Y. McDonald a

27
 28 "Limited common element" means a portion of the common elements allocated . . . for the exclusive use of one or more but fewer than all of the units.

1 reasonable opportunity to repair the alleged defects. Id., ¶ 5. Furthermore, Ms. Hasken has 2 personal knowledge that A.Y. McDonald is a manufacturer located in Dubuque, Iowa and sells its 3 products to distributors and not directly to consumers. Id., ¶ 2. Ms. Hasken need not be a lawyer 4 or expert to make these assertions of fact. Even if the Court determines that the Affidavit makes 5 improper conclusions of law, the facts alleged are still admissible because of the personal 6 knowledge of Ms. Hasken to attest to these facts. The Affidavit is totally bereft of opinions, 7 much less any expert opinions. Accordingly, the Court should overrule Plaintiffs' objections to 8 Ms. Hasken's Affidavit.

9 D. Plaintiffs Missed the Opportunity to Show that their Claims are not Barred by the 10 Statute of Limitations or Statutes of Repose

11 Plaintiffs are still playing "hide the ball" with basic facts in this litigation, i.e. the dates
 12 when the alleged transactions took place. In their Response, Plaintiffs claim that A.Y. McDonald 13 is required to incur significant attorney's fees and costs in discovery to learn whether or not their 14 claims are barred by the appropriate Statute of Limitations or Statute of Repose. Response (Doc.
 15 #62), p. 6, l. 20 – p. 7, l. 5. Plaintiffs could have cleared up this issue simply by providing an 16 Affidavit, supported by evidence, to show that the alleged transactions took place within an 17 appropriate time frame so that their claims are not barred. Plaintiffs missed this opportunity to 18 set the record straight so it must be assumed their claims are not timely. Accordingly, the Court 19 should find that Plaintiffs claims are barred by the appropriate Statute of Limitations and/or 20 Statute of Repose, and dismiss Plaintiffs' Complaint.

21 E. A.Y. McDonald is not a "Supplier" Within the Meaning of Chapter 40

22 Plaintiffs argue that A.Y. McDonald should be considered a "supplier" even though Ms.
 23 Hasken has affirmed that it is a manufacturer headquartered in Dubuque, Iowa that sells through 24 distribution and not directly to consumers.³ Response (Doc #62), p. 6, l. 11-18. Plaintiffs argue 25 for an open-ended definition of the word "supplier" that could potentially include every 26 manufacturer, distributor and wholesaler of every component part to a home. If A.Y.

27
 28 ³ "Supplier" means a person who provides materials, equipment or other supplies for the construction of a residence or appurtenance. NRS 40.634.

1 McDonald can be sued in a Chapter 40 litigation, then so can any entity that provides any product
 2 to a residential project, no matter how remote its involvement. While such a “chain of 3 distribution” jurisdiction may be appropriate in a product defect litigation (which involves 4 personal injury or damage to property other than the product) it is not appropriate to construction 5 defect, which is essentially a local matter involving defendants who do business locally.

6 Furthermore, in a construction defect matter, the potential pool of defendants would be in the 7 thousands if the manufacturer, distributor, and wholesaler of every component part that went 8 into a home could be named as a Chapter 40 defendant.

9 The Chapter 40 pre-litigation procedures make sense when applied to contractors, 10 subcontractors, design professionals and suppliers who have a local presence because they can 11 exercise their right to inspect and make repairs if they choose to do so. A remote manufacturer in 12 another state, such as A.Y. McDonald, does not have any real opportunity to inspect or repair, so 13 the Chapter 40 procedures, even if followed, are a mere formality that provide no real protection 14 to a potential defendant.

15 A line has to be drawn somewhere, and what makes sense is to draw the line at suppliers 16 who do business locally and directly sold its products to a contractor, subcontractor, or design 17 professional who worked on the project. It does not make sense to expand the definition of 18 “supplier” beyond that boundary. Accordingly, A.Y. McDonald, which is headquartered in 19 Dubuque, Iowa, and did not sell its products directly to Plaintiffs, should not be considered a 20 “supplier” in this litigation and Plaintiffs’ Complaint should be dismissed.

21 F. Plaintiffs’ Counter-Motion for Leave to Amend Should be Denied

22 Although there is a general rule that parties are allowed to amend their pleadings, it does 23 not extend to cases in which any amendment would be an exercise in futility, Pisciotta v.
24 Teledyne Industries, Inc., 91 F.3d 1326, 1331 (9th Cir. 1996), or where the amended complaint
 25 would be subject to dismissal. Saul v. United States, 928 F.2d 829, 843 (9th Cir. 1991). In this 26 case, Plaintiffs have not complied with the minimal requirements of bringing a Chapter 40 action, 27 do not have standing as “claimants” because they do not own the water lines and because the 28 water lines are not “appurtenances” as defined in Chapter 40. Furthermore, even if all those

1 defects were overlooked, A.Y. McDonald is not a proper defendant in this action because it is not
2 a "supplier" within the definition of Chapter 40. Accordingly, an amendment of the Complaint
3 would be futile and the Counter-Motion for Leave to Amend should be denied.

4 CONCLUSION

5 Plaintiffs' Chapter 40 Complaint is defective on many grounds. Plaintiffs have flagrantly 6 disregarded the minimal pre-litigation requirements to file a Chapter 40 action, failing to provide 7 A.Y. McDonald with notice of the alleged defects, a right to inspect, and reasonable opportunity
8 to repair. Plaintiffs lack standing because the water lines they allege to own are not actually 9 owned by them. Furthermore, the subject water lines are part of a public utility system and are 10 not "appurtenances" as defined by Chapter 40. A.Y. McDonald is not a "supplier" because it is a 11 manufacturer in a remote state that did not sell its products directly to Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs have 12 missed the opportunity to prove that their claims are not barred by the Statute of Limitations or 13 Statute of Repose

14 Accordingly, Plaintiffs' Chapter 40 Complaint should be dismissed. Plaintiffs' Counter-15 Motion for Leave to Amend, for all the above reasons, is an exercise in futility and should be 16 denied.
